TONIGHT—PICTURES

"WHEN WE WERE TWENTY-ONE"
William Elliott, popular member of the more youthful element of prominent Broadway stars, who is at present achieving a tremendous personal triumph in the current dramatic sensation, "Experience," makes his first appearance in motion pictures in an absorbing film adaptation of H. V. Edmund's celebrated play, "When We Were Twenty-one." Nat Goodwin's former starring vehicle. Mr. Elliott's character of the plot, is known—that irrepressible and light hearted young man whose tragic love affair so nearly brings ruin to himself and to the guardian who loves him as a son. Mr. Elliott won laurels in Henry W. Savage's phenomenal success, "Madame X," in which he took the country by storm by his powerful portrayal of the impassioned young defender of the accused woman. In "When We Were Twenty-one" Mr. Elliott's winning personality and magnetism will have full scope, both in the lighter moments when "The Imp" enjoys the freedom of college life and breaks loose in the New York cabaret, and in the later ones, when he meets the notorious "Firefly," a heartless and beautiful actress, who, hearing from a practical joker that "The Imp" will come into a fortune when he is of age, marries him on the day he is twenty-one, and flings him aside when she hears he is penniless. From this crisis "The Imp" emerges regenerated, turning to a purer, sweeter love that waits for him at home.

My house is air cool, the best of seats, the best of music, a Rudolph Wurlitzer 25 piece orchestra. Our pictures are all first run. Don't forget today we have a Paramount. They are all high class.

Pair of Professional
to Put Over Tall Ones

The efforts of just one liar are usually of small avail in creating a general belief in his tale, but when two full fledged members of the club bear down upon an unsuspecting victim and explain him to death in three short minutes—that's team work and all one can do is throw up one's hands and give the S. O. S. sign.

The latest and probably one of the most efficient teams in this connection is composed of Joe Thompson and George Brown. Their signal system is perfect and their inside play rivals that of the famous Cub baseball machine of long ago. Their combined efforts would successfully work the squeeze and score on the best defense in the world. When they get through, you've just got to believe them. No argument.

Today they marched in with a pair of exhibits that brand them as rank nature fakirs for there just "ain't no such vegetable." Thompson told it and Brown averred on his oath to the correctness of details as set forth, so there is nothing left but to take to the untrimmed cedars.

Exhibit A—A potato about the size of a golf ball, fully matured and apparently of a healthy condition. Through its center was embedded a metal ring, part of which was protruding after the manner of a ring in a hog's nose. Around the edges of the hole through which appeared sections of the ring, the skin had effectively grown over.

Exhibit B—Three stalks of sweet corn. The fruit commonly known as "roasting ears" was growing in its proper place about the center of the stalk. Grains fully developed and ready to be roasted, parboiled or otherwise prepared for the table. The tassels—yes, the tassels. Not the fluffy, waving tassel, so common to the eye, but unmistakably a tassel that was turning to another ear of corn, in fact, several ears of corn.

"Now you see the ears down on the stalk are the ones I eat and the ears on the tassels are the ones I feed to my horse," explained Mr. Thompson. "That's right, I saw him do it," chorled Mr. Brown.

"About the potato and the ring," continued the fluent one—"You see, the potato patch was directly under the clothes line. The potatoes grew so fast that—"

"Come on here Joe. There's a guy up on the corner looking for you," replied Brown, and dragged the unwilling Thompson through the door.

DAILY EXPRESS ICE BLANKET

Saves 1/2
Your Ice Bills.

To its many subscribers, old and new, the Daily Express is offering a most unique premium that should at once become popular in every home in Chickasha where there is a refrigerator or ice box. The blanket is made of vegetable parchment, is thoroughly sanitary, and its value lies in the fact that it excludes heat from the outside and retains the cold air beneath. Just place the blanket loose over exposed side of ice, top or front, tucking the edges in. It will keep the outside warm air from coming in contact with the ice and save one half, and will not decrease refrigeration. The blanket is not porous so it will not become musty or strong smelling, won't dissolve or go to pieces when wet, so you need have no fear of clogging the drain pipe. Don't use any more porous, unsanitary cloths, burlap sacks or newspapers on your ice.

The only consideration necessary to secure one of these blankets, is to pay one month's subscription in advance to the Daily Express—forty cents—and our solicitor, or collectors, and you one. Or the blankets may be obtained on the same terms at the Daily Express office.

If you do not desire to advance your subscription one month, the ice blanket may be bought at this office. Price 10 cents.
